"Dan" Collett assumed the duties of secretary of the Utah Manufacturers' association Saturday.

"I have always considered the Manufacturers' association Saturday.

"I have always considered the Manufacturers' association Saturday.

"I have always considered the Manufacturers' association a very beneficial organization." said Mr. Collett yesterday, "that the ever really appreciated its importance to the city and state until commenced getting next to the ropes in the future. The association is going to have here will be experts there to hear here. The second is going to have here will make good" there is little question, for those of Salt Lake's population who have heard her have been unanimous in praise of her vocal endowment.

W. E. Miller, at one time president of the Miller Manufacturing company of Denver, which was sold to another company some time ago, is making an effort to interest local business men in the establishment of a factory here for the manufacturers. Why, it really opened the eyes of hundreds. People didn't know that Salt Lake manufacturing plants could turn out the finished article that they do until they saw samples of the prosperity fair. I consider it a genuine honor to be connected with this association. I shall endeavor to work for its best interests and the interests of Salt Lake and our great state always."

MAGAZINES FOR MAY.

SMART SET.—Jack London is represented in the May issue of the Smart Set by one of the most charming stories he has ever written. "Aloha Oe" is a tale of Hawaii, full of romance and perfume of that sun-bathed island empire. In the development of the story is shown the basic idea of race difference that introduces an interesting problem apropos of this country and its island dependencies.
